

U.S. Export Administration Regulations

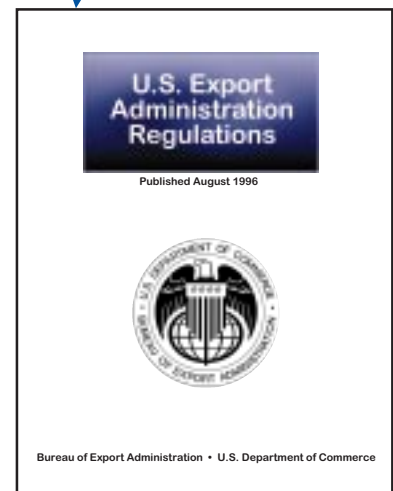

Now Available
Online And in
Looseleaf Format

The first major rewrite of the Export Administration Regulations (EAR) in over 40 years is now available through the National Technical Information Service in both online and paper copy format.

This new edition provides exporters with the latest rules controlling the export of U.S. dual-use commodities, technology, and software—and includes features that make the regulations easier to understand and use than ever before.

Both formats cover all the critical issues on export licensing requirements, including:

- ☐ When an export license is necessary, and when it is not
- ☐ How to obtain an export license
- ☐ What policies will be followed in considering license applications
- ☐ Policy changes
- ☐ New restrictions on exports to certain countries and certain types of items
- ☐ Where to obtain further help

EAR Now Available Online at <http://bxa.fedworld.gov>
— Just $21 a Month!

The EAR online offers a wide range of features and benefits:

- ☐ The fully searchable database allows you to quickly locate specific information.
- ☐ New and revised regulations appear in the system immediately after being published in the Federal Register.
- ☐ A special "What's New" section gives you direct access to the most recently updated information.
- ☐ An EAR "conference room" allows you to take part in the formulation of the regulations by providing comments electronically to BXA.
- ☐ Order online at <http://bxa.fedworld.gov> — or call the NTIS Subscriptions Desk at (703) 487-4630.
